COVID-19

- Travel restrictions & an inability to meet the client face to face may impact a firm's ability to conduct an effective client risk assessment.
- Increased levels of caution resulting in the need to gather more evidence in the third stage of CDD to verify the client's identity.
- Firms should always consider how they will demonstrate the provenance of document copies.
- Certified copies can be treated as a reliable source if you are satisfied with the standing of the certifier

COVID-19

- Can a firm defer the normal client due diligence checks if the staff member responsible for conducting them is self-isolating?
- CDD should normally be completed before entering into relationship
- AML legislation does recognise that CDD will occasionally need to be completed while the business relationship is established, rather than before. However, delays like this are only allowed when there is little risk of money laundering.
